

CRUISE PORT KIEL

The Start of a Beautiful Cruise

WELCOME TO KIEL, WELCOME TO THE BALTIC

The First Choice in Germany

Nearly two million passengers a year start their ferry trips and cruises right here on the Kiel Fiord. Our deepwater port which is accessible for all types of ships lies close to the eastern exit of the Kiel Canal, which links the North Sea and the Baltic. It offers passengers a pleasant stay in three modern and comfortable terminal buildings right in the heart of the city. Sailing boats, big yachts, lighthouses and white beaches all help conjure up a holiday atmosphere whenever cruise ships leave their berths and head for the open sea.

Home Port Kiel

The Port of Kiel is the ideal springboard for voyages in northern Europe – not only because of the port's excellent passenger terminal facilities but also because of its good transport hinterland. The "city on the fiord" is easily reached by car or bus via an expansive motorway network or by express rail services. In addition, Hamburg International Airport is just 60 minutes away from Kiel's ship berths. Plenty of reasons, then, for prominent shipping companies to select Kiel as both the starting point and final destination on their voyages.

EXCELLENTLY EQUIPPED FOR CRUISE SHIPS

Germany's Cruise Capital

The unique combination which Kiel has to offer – geographical advantages, excellent terminal infrastructure and accessibility – have all contributed to its becoming the base port of choice for many respected shipping companies. They show their satisfaction with Kiel and its location by choosing to come back, year after year. Co-operating closely with local suppliers, we develop tailor-made service concepts, which allow smooth-running ship supply and guarantee optimal care for both ships and passengers. Top of the list here, of course, is passenger and cruise ship security. The security measures in force at all the port's facilities are those stipulated by the new ISPS Code. The inner city location of the three modern passenger terminals is unique, with hotels, restaurants and shopping malls all close by.

PLENTY TO SEE

The Must-Dos: Kiel · Hamburg · Lübeck

Kiel is not only an ideal passenger exchange junction for cruise ships. It is also a splendid stepping-off point for land excursions. Along with the attractions which the city itself offers the traveller – like large shopping centres and a wide variety of museums – a long list of downtown and harbour area festivals further enhances the city's musical and cultural diversity. Held annually in the last week of June, Kiel Week is the ultimate event. It is the world's biggest sailing event, boasting around 2,000 guest boats and 2–3 million visitors a year.

Day trips to Schleswig Holstein's many castles and stately homes, to the old Hansa city of Lübeck or to the metropolis of Hamburg should not be missed on any sea voyage itinerary as well.
